Brad's great great great great parent grandparent was married to somebody who was born on the Mayflower.

Andrew DeFranza was a champion of a ring toss contest in New jersey.

Adam won a prize for raising a steer at a state fair in Michigan.

Rebecca was a summer lifeguard who had no idea how to swim.

Today's Speaker:

We then heard from Allison Caffrey the executive director of Beverly bootstraps. She is 6 months into her tenure and provided a great handout describing the services they have provided in 2025. Bootstraps focuses on self-sufficiency for their clients and they have recently renovated their warehouse. The five target areas they work on are food insecurity, case management, High School graduation/esol and career college readiness and financial literacy, Youth and Family services, and they provide a Thrift store.

Allison was drawn to this work because she saw inequality in her own home community and has worked in the non-profit space for many years. Bootstraps uses Community Partnerships to make sure their clients receive all necessary services.

Please consider attending their "Best Chef" annual fundraiser on April 10th at the Peabody Marriott, Texas are available now.

Gwen picked the winning ticket but did not find the joker.

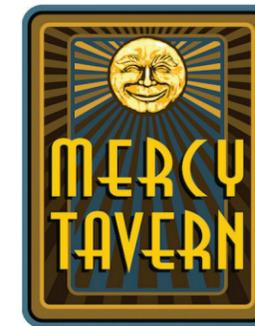

Adjourned at 1:25 p.m.

Humbly submitted by Bernie Romanowski
